

SCALING (After Care Instructions)

- Your mouth may feel sore and sensitive after your dental scaling and root planing.
- Some patients experience swelling or bleeding for a few days following the procedure.
- A second visit after your dental scaling is necessary
 - to assess and examine the gums
 - measure the depth of your gum pockets.
 - to ensure that your mouth is healing properly.